

Soybeans in Ms. Deitelhoff's classroom

This was a great experience for the Cornell Middle School 6th & 7th grade class. We watched videos on the history and uses of the beans and how they are used throughout Wisconsin and the world. In addition, we sampled various soy food products and planted beans to grow throughout the summer. A new favorite snack for the students is dry roasted soybeans.

On October 11, we then visited a local soybean farm where Larry Harms provided the students with an excellent presentation on the beans and their harvest.

Thank you to:

The Wisconsin Soybean Marketing Board for providing educational information and funding for our trip.

Kevin Hoyer, from Melrose Farm Service, for providing the soybeans for our planting project

Dennis Deitelhoff, Renaissance Nutrition Inc. for picking up and delivering soybean seeds

Larry Harms, for the field trip on harvesting soybeans and the combine information
